

Do any of your findings surprise you?

I'm surprised that the Median Pay for Financial Managers is so high, and that the number of Economists is so low.

Financial Manager

Personal Financial Advisor

Data Scientist

Computer Programmer

Economist

Mathematicians and Statisticians

Accountant

Ranking Explanation

I ranked financial jobs first because I knew I wanted to work in that area. However, I ranked "Accountant" low because I took Accounting classes and didn't enjoy them. The "Data Scientist" and "Computer Programmer" jobs are next because I enjoy coding. "Economist" and "Mathematicians and Statisticians" are jobs that I believe I would enjoy, but less than the rest of the jobs in my ranking.
